GREAT DEBATE SHOWCASE

Don't miss this chance to engage your students or family in two exciting issues of twentieth-century diplomacy — the Cold War and the Energy Crisis. Both themes to be debated live by student debate team members. Each debate is followed by Q & A, analysis of research materials, a museum tour, and a chance for visitors to examine Carter-era documents related to the themes of Cold War and Energy. Ideal for National History Day researchers. Limited space. Reserve your seat today!

THE COLD WAR DEBATE:

Wed, November 1, 2006, 10:00 AM-12:30 PM
Emory University's Barkley Forum debaters argue both sides of Soviet Containment, and how the Cold War affected US foreign policy during the 20th-century.

THE ENERGY CRISIS DEBATE:

Wed, November 8, 2006, 10:00 AM-12:30 PM
High School debaters take on the Energy Crisis, based on research from the Carter administration to the present.

RSVP for yourself, your family, or your school group by October 25 by calling 404-865-7126. More information at www.jimmycarterlibrary.gov
